For Release to the PM's OF WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1946

Dr. Neil W. Hosley has joined the staff of the Fish and Wildlife Service of the U. S. Department of the Interior as biologist in charge of the unit conducting wildlife investigations on public lands, Albert M. Day, Service director, announced today.

Dr. Hosley, who is generally recognized as an outstanding research authority on forest wildlife, has been an associate professor at the University of Connecticut since 1938 engaged in teaching and research in wildlife management. From 1925 to 1938, he served as instructor of silviculture and forest management at the Harvard Forest in Petersham, Mass.

A native of Hornell, N. Y., Dr. Hosley received degrees of B.S. from Syracuse University in 1924, M.F. from Harvard University in 1925, and Ph.D. from the University of Michigan in 1938.

The Fish and Wildlife Service conducts investigations on public lands for the purpose of correlating wildlife interests with those of grazing, forestry and other land uses.
